ALCOHOL AND DRUG ABUSE

Are you concerned that your teen may have a substance abuse problem? Here are some of the key indicators:

- School work has declined
- Missing school
- Mood changes
- Secretive Behavior
- Dropping out of usual activities
- Physical appearance changing
- Friends suddenly change
- Hostile, aggressive outbursts
- Seems to have "lost" motivation
- Unusual sleeping habits
- Money or valuables missing from parents' purse or home

Make an appointment for a substance abuse assessment and receive objective feedback comparing your teen to the national average. Learn about the factors contributing to substance abuse as well as the likely progression should the behavior continue.
